

Strategic Bombing May Save Europe, Says Air General

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Military Reporter
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Congress has air general Hoyt Vandenberg's word that strategic bombing can help an outnumbered land army save western Europe from an aggressor.

The air force's chief of staff reaffirmed his confidence in strategic air war (the destruction of an enemy's munitions-producing centers) in his most recent Capitol Hill appearance to testify on new military appropriations requests.

Debated For Decade
The value of strategic air war has been debated for a decade, since the first days of World War II. Strategic air war now is one of the major components of the defensive war plans of the American joint chiefs of staff, of which Vandenberg is a member.

But the argument goes on. The question bobbed up again when a House appropriations military subcommittee heard testimony of air force officials recently.

Chairman Mahon (D-Tex.) told Vandenberg there are "some misguided Americans and air force enthusiasts x x x who have miscalculated the capacity of air power to win a war or a battle." Mahon added that "of course, nobody in the military establishment, nor any well-informed person, has held that view." He said he wanted the air force's comment. Vandenberg then summed up the air force's views about air power in grand strategy, saying this:

Korea can't be taken as an example because in that war zone there is an "invulnerable border and you can't use strategic air in full measure." The border is the Yalu river, beyond which lie the air bases and assembling points for the masses of Chinese Red troops which have overwhelmed United Nations ground forces. Under questioning, Vandenberg said the Yalu boundary was made inviolate by decision of the United Nations.

No Border Barriers
But "if we are now talking about Europe, where there are no borders that we cannot cross," the situation is quite different, he said.

Sympathy May Help To Save Acheson's Job

Truman Sticks With Secretary Of State

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Democratic leaders counted today on American sympathy for the underdog in attempts to rally support for Secretary of State Acheson in the face of formal GOP demands for his ouster.

Two influential Democratic senators who didn't want to be quoted by name told reporters they think public reaction to the Republican stand may help solidify support for Acheson if he stays on.

Spot For Vinson?
One high administration authority who asked not to be named said President Truman is "absolutely determined" to stick by Acheson and has no intention of yielding to the Republican groups in both the Senate and the House which voted last Friday their belief that Acheson has lost the confidence of the country and should be replaced.

On the other hand, there were reports circulating in Congress of a possible triple-play move by President Truman to quiet the GOP opposition.

These reports — and they weren't vouched for by anyone in authority — were to the effect that if Acheson quits Mr. Truman might ask Chief Justice Fred Vinson to leave the supreme court and take over the state portfolio.

Kent Too Long
If this happened, it was said Attorney General McGrath might be in line for a court appointment and Clark Clifford, former presidential legal adviser now in private practice here, for attorney general.

Senator Brewster (R-Me.) suggested yesterday the first of these moves. He called Vinson a Democrat who would command the complete confidence of Congress and the country in an attempt to rehabilitate the tragic situation which we face.

Some of the Republicans calling for Acheson's ouster took the position that he should have been replaced before his departure yesterday for a treaty treaty foreign ministers' meetings at Brussels.

Acheson took off on schedule in the President's plane, "The Independence." Mr. Truman, who frequently sees his secretary of state off on such trips, was out of town on a short cruise. But he issued a statement saying "Secretary Acheson goes to this meeting with my complete confidence."

Labor And Industry Object To Cutback

DETROIT — (AP)—Automobile prices will be rolled back on government order—but only over strong objections from both car makers and labor.

Big factions in the big auto industry have labeled "unfair" the economic stabilization agency's Saturday order to push back car prices to the Dec. 1 level.

Companies Comply
Nevertheless, General Motors Corp., the Ford Motor Co., and Nash Motors, three of the firms that boosted prices this month, said yesterday they would comply. GM's Cadillac division withdrew a scheduled price increase announcement.

There was no immediate word from Chrysler Corp., the other producer involved.

Other companies had announced their increases on 1951 models before Dec. 1.

One spokesman for the auto industry said of the rollback order: "They are taking advantage of the auto industry." A GM official called the move "patently discriminatory."

Reuther Changes Tune
This view got staunch support from Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers and often a bitter foe of the auto producers' policies.

Reuther said he opposed "pin-

Motherless Children Lose Their Home And Yule Gifts In Fire

BALTIMORE — (AP)—Fire yesterday destroyed the home, most of the clothing and all of the Christmas presents of seven small children who lost their mother only three months ago.

The youngsters, ranging in age from two to nine years, escaped with only the clothes they were wearing when the blaze broke out in a bedroom of their small bungalow in suburban Essex.

Their father, William H. Barnes, 42, was knocked down by falling pieces of the burning ceiling and had to crawl to safety.

The youngsters' mother died Sept. 7. Barnes said she committed suicide.

TOUCHED OFF RIOTS—Departure from Singapore of Maria Bertha Hertogh, 14-year-old "Jungle Bride," heightened the violence of a series of religious riots among Moslem natives who demanded that the girl be returned to her Moslem school-teacher husband. Her marriage declared invalid by a British court, the girl was ordered returned to her Dutch mother and was whisked off to Holland during the racial rioting.

Artillery And Warships Stop Enemy Assault
Intense Firepower Protects Hungnam

By OLEN W. CLEMENTS
TOKYO — (AP)—A fiery bombardment by warships and field artillery today held at bay another Red Chinese assault on the United Nations' tiny Hungnam beachhead in northeast Korea.

The U. S. Battleship Missouri arrived offshore. Its 16-inch guns and one-ton shells were a welcome addition to the curtain of fire shielding hard-pressed units of the U. S. 10th Corps.

Knock Them Out
Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, 10th Corps commander, obviously was pleased by the intense firepower hurled at the masses of Chinese infantry pressing on the port from three sides.

"Things are going just the way we planned them," he said. "Now every time the Chinese Communists dig in, we hit them with artillery concentrations, mix them up and knock them out. That's something we have been unable to do before."

At no point on the port's defense had the Chinese been able to punch through. Observers said the Reds apparently had not sent many troops into bomb and shell-shattered Hungnam, industrial city six miles northwest of Hungnam. Hungnam was abandoned to the Reds Saturday.

Range Of 20 Miles
An estimated 25,000 Chinese pressed against the beachhead rim. Another estimated 75,000 were moving up in the snow-mantled hills west and northwest of Hungnam.

Arrival of the battleship Missouri increases the range and effectiveness of naval fire. The Mighty Mo's guns have a range of 20 miles—far enough to reach the white hills sheltering Chinese rear positions.

The Missouri entered the Korean war Sept. 15 with an intense shelling of Samchok on the east coast. This was after an 11,000-mile dash from Norfolk, Va. She appeared off Inchon Sept. 21 to help cover the Allied west coast landings and then returned.

Dickinson County Board Asks Aid To Ease Unemployment

IRON MOUNTAIN — (AP)—The Dickinson county board of supervisors Saturday adopted a resolution calling upon Governor G. Mennen Williams to assist county industries in obtaining contracts for defense production to relieve unemployment.

A second resolution was adopted proposing an increase, to offset rising prices, in the $26 paid weekly as state unemployment compensation.

Supervisor Joseph Colantonio, urging favorable action on the two resolutions, said the employment picture in Dickinson county is "the worst in the state."

GRAND RAPIDS — (AP)—Police said they picked up an elderly woman Saturday who was gathering her Christmas gifts for others "without paying for them."

The 71-year-old Carson City woman had a list that started "sweater for Joe, girdle for Mamie." Police said she had two shopping bags full of everything from a dictionary to a child's sweater.

Huge Excess Profits Bill Nears Vote
By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON — (AP)—Senate leaders looked today for a lift from Santa in their drive for swift passage of a huge excess profits tax bill.

The Senate Finance committee called a meeting today to put finishing touches to the measure. The aim is to bring it up for Senate debate today or tomorrow and for a vote of approval not later than Friday, when Congress plans a short Christmas recess.

Leaders suggested the urge to get away for the holidays would help to shorten oratory and permit a vote. The Senate may also vote during the week on a House-approved bill to provide $17,809,304,424 in defense funds. Its passage is assured.

The tax measure would produce an estimated $3,150,000,000 to $3,550,000,000 revenues in its first year, starting last July 1, and possibly a much higher yield in subsequent years as defense spending mounts. The bill the House passed would produce an estimated $3,400,000,000 its first year, or about $600,000,000 less than President Truman requested.

Communist Spurn Korean Peace Bid And UN Is Gloomy

LAKE SUCCESS — (AP)—The U. N. cease-fire committee announced today it had offered to go to Peiping for direct Korean peace talks with Chou En-lai, foreign minister of Communist China.

The disclosure was made in the general assembly's 60-nation political committee by Lester B. Pearson of Canada, a member of the three-man truce body.

NABBED BY REDS—Archbishop Josef Beran, of Prague, has been seized and secretly imprisoned by the Communist government of Czechoslovakia, according to an announcement by the National Catholic Conference in Washington.

Wu Lacks Authority
Pearson read a cable, which the group had sent to Peiping last Saturday. The cease-fire committee offered to meet Chou either in Peiping or at any other peace designated by him.

The cable was sent, Pearson said, after the cease-fire committee had consulted unofficially with Red China's envoy here, Gen. Wu Hsiu-chuan, and discovered that he had no authority to negotiate peace.

Pearson said no reply has been received from Peiping.

"We want to meet you at your earliest convenience to discuss cease-fire arrangements, either here or elsewhere," the telegram said.

Pearson asked the political committee to bear with the cease-fire group a little longer while it continues its efforts.

Amir's Trap Denounced
The group met yesterday to frame their report and hear Rau detail his conversations Saturday night with Red China's representative, Wu Hsiu-chuan.

Rau, accompanied by the Jam Sahel, Maharajah of Nawanagar, dined with Wu just three hours after the Chinese Communist had denounced the U. N.'s plan for a cease fire in Korea as an American trap to get a breathing spell for a military build up.

Wu also told a jammed press conference at Lake Success that his government might be willing to advise its so-called volunteers in Korea to come home, but indicated this would only be done after complete surrender by the U. N. to all Chinese Communist demands in Asia.

These include U. N. membership, withdrawal of American troops from Korea and the Seventh fleet from Formosa, and the surrender of Chiang Kai-shek's last-ditch island stronghold to the Reds.

Auto Accidents Take 8 Lives
Prominent Detroit Cafe Owner Killed
(By The Associated Press)

A prominent Detroit restaurant owner was one of nine victims of fatal accidents in Michigan during the weekend.

He was Hans H. Wasum, 47, owner of a downtown seafood restaurant, Wasum's. His car struck a truck backing out of a driveway near suburban Centerline Saturday night and Wasum died of a broken neck.

All but one of the accident victims died in traffic mishaps. Paul Milton Buchanan, 32, of Hartford, was the exception. He was struck and killed by a freight train in the yards at Benton Harbor Saturday. A fellow worker there said Buchanan became confused and stepped in front of a train.

Two young men were killed in Detroit Friday night when their car crashed into an abutment of an underpass. The victims were identified as Michael J. Kozloski, 18, and Frank B. Poluske, 22. Their car bore a Pennsylvania license.

Joseph Lung, 61, of suburban Dearborn township, was killed early Sunday when one car struck him at an intersection and two others ran over him. Dr. Hayward G. Maben of Detroit, driver of the first car involved, told police the other autos ran over the victim as he rushed to his aid.

Child Saves Dog
DETROIT — (AP)—The old story of "dog saves child" was reversed Sunday. Ring, a big, dignified collie, fell through thin ice on a creek and couldn't get out. He barked and howled. Sandra Warden, 12, waded through the chilly water that reached her neck and pulled the dog out just as he was going under.

Ailing Italian Red Leaves For Moscow

The Italian News Agency Ansa said Palmiro Togliatti, number one Italian Red, left by train yesterday for the Soviet capital. Togliatti is recovering from a brain operation.

Maurice Thorez, French Communist leader, already is in Moscow for treatment following a stroke he suffered in Paris two months ago.

Voluntary Freeze May Be Asked On Prices And Wages

WASHINGTON — (AP)—A request that business and workers voluntarily freeze all prices and wages shaped up today as the government's probable next move in fighting the inflation fired by mounting defense spending.

Officials who asked not to be named said such a step was contemplated within a few days by Alan Valentine, head of the economic stabilization authority (ESA).

More Controls Coming
As they outlined it, the request would be that business, unions and the public adhere voluntarily to the prices and wages which existed on Dec. 1 or some other recent date.

But further compulsory price controls appeared to be in the making, following up the rollback on new car prices which Valentine ordered over the weekend.

Meat industry officials were called in today (9:30 a. m. EST) to discuss prices, leading to speculation that ceilings may be clamped shortly on beef, veal and lamb.

Those three meats are among the relatively few farm products now selling at prices higher than the ceilings which may be imposed under the economic controls law.

There were indications, however, that these talks would be largely exploratory. ESA still has little more than a token staff, and there are so many producers in the meat industry that price ceilings would be relatively difficult to enforce.

No Penalty Provided
Meanwhile, Charles E. Wilson prepared to take over as the overall boss of the nation's mobilization against possible new Communist aggression. Wilson is resigning as president of the General Electric Co. to direct the new agency.

Early Settlement Pushed In Railway Wage-Hour Dispute

By HAROLD W. WARD
WASHINGTON — (AP)—Hope rose today for an early settlement of the long wage and hour dispute between the nation's railroads and four operating unions.

The White House pressed them to come to terms.

The pace of negotiations was stepped up even as the effects of a strike by one group involved faded. Some 10,000 yardmen walked off their jobs for three days last week, tying up freight and Christmas mail in key rail terminals, but the jam was clearing rapidly.

Some Progress Made
Presidential Assistant John R.

Steelman kept the negotiators in session until 2:45 a. m. (EST) today, and reported "some progress." The union and management representatives faced each other across the bargaining table for the first time since August, when the roads were seized by the government to avert a strike. Steelman arranged another session this afternoon.

The Post office department threw 12,000 additional workers into the fight to break the mail jam. It said it hopes all Yule packages will be delivered in time despite what appears to be the biggest flow of holiday mail in history.

Settlement of the drawn-out rail wage dispute depended on how the unions and railroads reacted to these contract proposals reported to be under discussion, many features of which already

Maniac Hunted In Philadelphia

Sniper Kills Woman; 6 Others Wounded

PHILADELPHIA — (AP)—Scores of police, working around the clock, today hunted a mysterious "mad" sniper who has killed one person and wounded six others in the city's residential Oak Lane section in the last six weeks.

The manhunt—described as the greatest in Philadelphia history—began late Saturday night after a 23-year-old housewife was slain by a gunman police believe responsible for six other shootings in the area.

"There's no doubt a maniac is on the loose," said one police officer. "Only a madman could have committed these acts."

Mrs. Clare Cohen, wife of a junior high school teacher and mother of two small children, was killed by a bullet fired through closed venetian blinds of a kitchen while she was washing dishes.

Police said the killer apparently fired from a terrace across the street from the house since the bullet entered the window, 12 feet above the ground, on a level plane.

They said the man must have seen dim shadows moving about behind the venetian blinds.

Mobilization Will Require Unity, Sacrifices By American People

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S address to the American people marked the beginning of all-out mobilization in defense of freedom. The general tone of the president's remarks reflected the gravity of the world situation. We are confronted with a ruthless enemy, an enemy whose determination to crush us as any cost has been proved in Korea.

Russia has been mobilized for war for years. In fact, the Soviets never demobilized at the end of World War II but, on the contrary, kept their armies intact and speeded up the production of their armaments plants to fulfill an ambition to rule the world.

The threat to the democratic nations of the world is serious, more so even than when the fascists of Germany and Japan were hell bent on aggression 10 years ago.

Retreat To Hungnam Etched In Heroism

WHEN they slashed their way victoriously out of a Chinese Red trap, some 25,000 U. S. Marines, 7th Division G. I.'s and British commandos etched a pattern of incomparable heroism in the snow and cold of northeast Korea.

This was the longest retreat in Marine annals—nearly 50 miles of bloody struggling over icy, tortuous mountain roads. Exhausted, tense, chilled by temperatures ranging down to 25 degrees below zero, these fighting men drove to temporary haven at Hungnam through a corridor of relentless enemy fire.

The cost of this epic break-out was high. The 1st Marine Engineer Battalion, which carved a path through the Chinese blocking the route ahead, suffered 60 per cent casualties of men and equipment. One reporter said 200 Americans were buried in a single grave, because there was no time for better arrangements.

As the gallant force hacked through to Koto on its way to the sea, it linked up with a small band of Marines surrounded for days by Chinese. Here's how, in the words of a correspondent, that little group looked to the larger force:

"It was a gruesome sight—wounded men with their blood frozen to their skins, their clothes stiff with ice, grotesque dead men lying across trailers and stretchers, live men stumbling along, grimacing from frost bite, using their rifles as crutches."

Once the long, bumper-to-bumper column stood almost motionless for four hours as engineers struggled to replace a bombed-out bridge. There were similar anguished delays as craters in the slippery road were filled. To go 0 miles on one part of that escape route required 14 hours.

All the way Chinese Communists were erecting obstacles ahead of our weary men, harassing their flanks, sniping at the column's rear. The enemy force was estimated at from three to five times greater than ours. Yet we exacted a toll of 10 Chinese for every casualty on our side.

When they finally made it down to the coastal plain, embattled Marines could find no energy for the formalities of "link-up" handshakes with the U. S. patrols who met them, nor had they many smiles for news-reel cameramen who asked them to "look happy." They'd seen and experienced too much.

"We have lost an awful lot of friends up on that plateau," said a Marine officer. "Almost everybody up there was a hero. It's just that some guys are asked what they did and tell about it, and others don't talk so good."

The schoolbooks of tomorrow will call this saga of skill and endurance and courage a retreat. But it is no surprise that the Marines who made that bitter march do not see it so. "It was no retreat," declared a colonel with fierce pride. "It was an advance to the rear."

What man, hearing of this ordeal, dares to say it was anything less?

Distillery Would Be Barrier To Bombs

FROM the capital we learn that the mighty Pentagon, one of the world's largest buildings, is filled to overflowing. The armed forces are taking over a nearby whisky distillery and two paper mills in northwest Washington to house their growing staffs.

It might be a good security plan for Secretary of Defense Marshall and other top officials to move into the distillery as soon as it's fitted out. From what we've heard of the Russians and their marathon drinking, any place that either is or could be converted to a distillery is an unlikely target for their bombers.

Those Cards

By Gordon Martin

Comes the glowing Christmas season and you think of all your friends, as the hard of merry fellowship across the land extends. Then you feel the urge to send a lot of greetings far and near, to acquaintances you'd like to wish a bit of Yuletide cheer. But when thinking of the folks to whom you'd give your best regards, you remember—once again—you failed to order Christmas cards!

Now each year the same thing happens and you swear 'twill be the last, but somehow you always wait until the order date is past and you say that weeks before another Christmas comes along, you will take the time to figure out your gadsome greeting song. You will choose a special picture with attractive color scheme, and you'll then be sure your Christmas cards have just the proper theme.

But ere long it is October and your order you delay, and the time goes flying by until it comes Thanksgiving Day. Then it soon is mid-December and no greetings have you signed, and you rush right out and buy just any cards that you can find. Then you vow, next year, you'll surely not delay your fond regards, but you likely will forget again to order Christmas cards

MARTIN

Merry-Go-Round A Ray of Sunshine Through the Clouds

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — When congressional and cabinet leaders filed into the White House to hear the president's report on the national emergency, Secretary of State Acheson happened to take a seat just opposite a row of his GOP critics—Senators Taft, Bridges of New Hampshire, and Wherry of Nebraska.

"Here is your opposition across from you," remarked Bridges, in an effort to break the ice.

The secretary of state did not quite know how to take this, whereupon Wherry interposed:

"I mean your constructive opposition."

The meeting that followed was about the nearest approach both political parties have made toward war cooperation. Republican senators Wiley of Wisconsin and Millikin of Colorado, with Ex-Speaker Joe Martin of Massachusetts, seemed especially sympathetic; and even Taft, though he disagreed with the president, offered to submit his dissenting statement to Mr. Truman for his O. K.

RUSSIAN WAR MOVES

The meeting was opened with a grim intelligence report indicating that while things were slightly better in Korea, tension had increased in other parts of the world. Russia seemed to be preparing to chop off new portions of Europe and Asia, the report indicated, while we were engrossed with China.

After the explanation of the military perils facing the nation, Mr. Truman invited the senators to ask questions. He seemed especially anxious to get the cooperation of Senator Taft, and directed many of his remarks toward him.

Taft and Wherry, however, demurred at Truman's proposed "national emergency."

"We shouldn't rush into this," cautioned Taft. He went on to say that he still didn't know what the program was which the president proposed, and that he doubted whether the public was prepared for all-out mobilization. "Does it have to be done this week?" he asked.

The president replied in the affirmative. Days, even hours are precious when total war might be approaching, he added.

"Does this mean wage and price control?" asked Colorado's Millikin.

"It does," replied the president.

"UNHORSED CAVALRYMAN"

Millikin, Wiley and Joe Martin were inclined to agree that Truman's declaration was poorly timed, but Martin urged that "we forget politics and work together as Americans."

When the president urged the importance of the psychological effect on the public, Senator Taft made this observation: "One big headline, one flash in the newspapers isn't enough to condition the people for the job they must shoulder in a national emergency. They will be better prepared both to accept the situation and do the job if they have some advance notice."

However, Majority Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois put in some persuasive arguments on the other side.

"I feel like a cavalryman who has had his horse shot out from under him," Lucas said, referring to the fact that he had just been defeated for re-election.

"You go right ahead, Scott," interrupted the president. You're still the majority leader."

"You Republican gentlemen have a large following," continued Lucas. "And I think it would have a bad effect if you publicly opposed a state of emergency."

White-haired Senator George of Georgia, an elder statesman who frequently disagrees with the administration, this time supported it.

"I think it would have a very bad effect on the public if you left the White House and said an emergency was not necessary," he told his Republican colleagues.

Taft agreed that an emergency did exist but still seemed to think that the president had enough power to cope with it. Later he drafted a statement along this line which he published—after submitting it to the president.

It was on this general note that the meeting broke up. A reasonably good start toward better political cooperation had been achieved.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

WHAT'S THE ORIGIN?

The word gopher is the English form of the French word gaulre, pronounced: GO-fuh. But the French gaulre does not mean a rodent like the American pest—the gopher is "a honeycomb," also "a waffle." The gopher is so called because its burrows honeycomb the earth in wafflelike runways.

The word swindle was borrowed from the German verb schwindeln, "to be giddy or dizzy." The German will say: mir schwindelt, meaning, "my brain is reeling; I am giddy." The German schwindel and the English swindle evolved thus: giddiness; vertigo; anything so wildly extravagant as to make one dizzy; hence, a fraud, charlatanism, cheating.

The word curtail is an especially fine word-trophy for our collection. It began with the Latin curia, "short," which became the French curiaud, "with the tail cut short," which became the English curtail, "a horse or dog with a docked tail." Now an English verb was needed to express the word tail that the noun curtail really grew a tail, becoming the verb curtail, meaning "to dock the tail!" And now, of course, to curtail means simply to shorten or make less.

Another word to reward your zeal is gargyle. Who would believe that basically gargyle means "to gargle"? The original word was the Latin gurgulio, "the gullet; the windpipe." This became the French gurgouille, "water spout of a gutter," because of the gurgling or gargling noise which water makes when pouring from a spout.

More than 100 tots were entered in a baby contest in California—doubtless much to their disgust.

Michigan 'Good Roads' Plan Again Heads For Legislature

County, city and state officials interested in satisfying the demands of the people for better roads and streets are pooling their forces for another and stronger appeal to the state legislature for adequate road financing.

Proposals for road financing and adoption of the Michigan Good Roads Federation report will be placed before the legislature at the general session in January. In cities and counties across the state a quiet campaign is under way to fully acquaint the local legislative representatives with the road problem before he leaves for Lansing.

"Let your representative know how you feel about roads and what you expect him to do," is the way a spokesman for the Michigan Association of County Road Commissioners phrased it.

The Users Pay

It will be the third attempt for passage of good roads legislation. Previous efforts failed, say the road people, because of political "footbalting" and the opposition of "special interests."

"The need for improvement of our highways, county roads and city streets is certainly evident to the people of Delta county," according to William J. Karas, superintendent-engineer of the Delta county road commission, and a director of the Michigan County Roads association.

In Michigan the highway users, through a state tax on gasoline and a weight tax on the vehicle, finance the road program. The taxes on gasoline (3 cents per gallon in Michigan) and on weight (paid when you purchase a license plate) are earmarked for use only on roads and streets.

Recommend 5 Cents

Unlike special road levies in some states, not one cent of tax raised from real estate assessment goes for roads.

The new proposed highway legislation to be recommended by the Michigan Good Roads Federation again asks increased highway revenue from an increase in gasoline and weight taxes. Briefly the revenue-increase would result from:

Taxing gasoline to a maximum of 5 cents per gallon, compared to the present 3 cents; and increasing the weight tax only on vehicles of four tons weight and over. Those who use the most gasoline and therefore do the most traveling on the highways would pay the bulk of gasoline tax—included in the millions of summer visitors and the passenger car and small truck owner would pay no more than new in weight tax.

Tax and Price

The average gasoline tax levied in states across the nation is 5 1/2 cents, compared to Michigan's present 3-cent tax. Proponents of the higher gas tax levy for Michigan point to the following figures as proof that the tax does not establish the price of gasoline to the motorist:

State	Tax	Price
Alabama	7 cents	29.8 cents
Louisiana	9 "	29.8 "

Massachusetts	3	24.7 "
Michigan	3	26.1 "
Pennsylvania	5	22.9 "
Arizona	5	36.1 "
North Dakota	4	27 "
Rhode Island	4	20.5 "
Colorado	6	27.5 "
Maine	6	22.9 "

The above figures, from the American Petroleum Institute as of Nov. 1, 1950, are viewed by the

India, Pakistan End Differences For Own Defense

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(P) Foreign Affairs Analyst

Are the two great nations of the Indian peninsula—India and Pakistan—ever likely to reconcile their racial and religious differences sufficiently for union under one government?

I raise that as something more than an academic question, because of the grave dangers which surround the two nations as the result of the Red upheaval in Asia. Already they have been engaged in discussions regarding the common threat and are reported to have drawn closer to each other.

If course the problem of a unified government was under anxious, and frequently bitter, debate for many years before freedom was established. Indeed it played a prominent part in delaying the granting of independence while a futile effort was made to bring the two peoples together.

Despite the final division, the question of unity has persisted, or perhaps one should say it has persisted because of the division since the present set-up represents an unhappy separation of the peninsula's resources.

And these resources included the strong army which Britain had created. That was divided between the two new governments.

The current situation provides a good illustration of the axiom that in unity is strength.

The recent moves by the Chinese Communists to establish control over Tibet and Nepal, on the northern frontier of the Indian peninsula, have caused both India and Pakistan deep concern. Such a control might constitute a military threat against the peninsula.

In top of that there now has appeared a new Chinese man which shows a vast section of Indian rich valley of Assam, and part of northern Burma, as belonging to China. Indian officials assume that the Chinese Reds, controlling the Chinese Reds, control the Chinese Reds, and the Chinese Reds, controlling the Chinese Reds, control the Chinese Reds.

Whether all this means trouble for India and Pakistan remains to be seen. Obviously the danger is there, and this in itself is bound to force the two nations closer together. In event of war they would have to reunite their armies, and make the stand together.

It is the foreign policy of the Democratic administrations which has made (a third world war) possible.—Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio.

No woman has ever so comforted the distressed—or distressed the comfortable!—Clare Booth Luce, on Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt.

Michigan Good Roads Federation as conclusive evidence that the price of gasoline to the consumer is not based upon the taxes paid by the consumer in the various states.

Funds for Roads

To what extent would the local communities benefit if the legislature adopts the Good Roads Federation proposal?

In comparison to gas and weight tax revenue received by the units last year, the proposed legislation, if it had been in effect that year, would have given additional revenue to the units as follows:

Delta county road commission, an additional $123,627; city of Escanaba $35,846; city of Gladstone $17,031.

The additional revenue would also make it possible for the county road commission to match federal highway funds to improve county trunklines, and this matching of $34,030 annually in federal funds would assure a continuing program of development on the county's major road network.

Paying Anyway?

County Road Superintendent-Engineer Karas estimates the grand total increase in revenue for roads and street purposes in Delta county as some $215,000 annually.

"The people in Delta county, and in other counties of the state, are paying for better roads and not getting them," Karas said. "How? Through increased repair bills on cars and trucks, lost time on the roads, loss of school time because the buses can't get through, yes and even injury and loss of life because of poor and dangerous roads and road conditions."

The Michigan Good Roads Federation's proposals would bring the state an estimated additional $120,000,000 for roads and streets. The state highways would receive 44 per cent, the cities 19 per cent, and the counties 37 per cent of the road revenues.

Counties Hard Hit

The problem of inadequate road financing has hit many of the counties hard, particularly those in the northern section of the state where winter maintenance is costly and leaves no tangible improvement for the amount spent. Snow plowing costs money.

Road commissions, cities, and the state highway department are lacking the Good Roads Federation proposals to be made to the legislature. Raising the folks back home to speak up in support of the program is being encouraged by Good Roads spokesmen.

Whether the people and the legislature are willing to go along on a gasoline tax increase is another matter. Everyone agrees the roads and streets need improvement—but what the legislature will do is still problematical. After all, this is the third time up to bat by the Good Roads Federation and it may be three times and out.

Good Evening . . .

By CLINT DUNATHAN

SLEIGH RIDE—How times have changed! Sleight was impressed upon us Sunday evening when he went for an old-fashioned sleigh ride.

We went on the ride more from necessity than inclination, considering our advanced years and a tendency toward easy-chair slump. A week or so ago we promised that we would provide transportation for part of a group of 4-H club girls from Escanaba to Hyde, where the sleigh ride was to start at the Louis Johnson farm, and we kept our promise.

Arriving at the Johnson farm we were invited to accompany the girls on the sleigh ride and, with Mel Nyquist, Delta 4-H agent, and Walt Johnson, driver, to give us courage we accepted. Besides we have always considered the 4-H a fine organization that should be given support—but before the ride was finished we needed more support than the 4-H.

GETTING THE HAY—In the good old days of fond recollection sleigh riding was in a sleigh to the accompaniment of the cheery sound of bells across the backs of the snorting horses.

At the Johnson farm Walt warmed up the tractor and hitched it to a large platform wagon on rubber-tired wheels. Meanwhile we went to the barn for four or five bales of straw to spread on the floor of the wagon—and some of the city girls commented on the smell of the cows, neatly stanchioned in the big barn.

"If you breathe through your mouth you can't smell it," said one of the girls knowingly.

"Yes," wailed another, "but then I can taste it!"

LIKE OLD TIMES—Once under way the ride became just like an old-fashioned sleigh ride—because young people are pretty much the same in any generation in their enjoyment of such an event.

They snuggled down in the hay, piled one on top of another, and laughed and sang and giggled just as their mothers and grandmothers had done when they were girls. Although the sleigh was a wagon and the horses were inside the engine of a tractor it did not change the sleigh-ride spirit of the group.

And they sang the traditional sleigh-ride songs—coming out loud on Jingle Bells. Even the Christmas carols were sung loudly, in competition with the noise of the tractor. "Silent night, holy night . . ."

"It would be a silent night if you could hear it," said Mel Nyquist, swinging his legs over the side of the wagon. The tractor slowed and Mel shouted "Come on, everybody off! Run for a while and get warmed up!"

WARMING UP—There were snow fights and pushing and shoving and laughter. We ran along beside the tractor, feeling the pinch of the cold air and the prickling return of circulation to our tender city toes.

Down hill and up we went, alternately riding and running. Past the houses where lights shown brightly, across the bridge spanning the ice-covered Ford River, and on through farmland hushed in winter's mantle of snow.

"My lip is so cold it feels like I had been to the dentist to have a tooth pulled," laughed one of the girls, the color high in her cheeks.

GOING HOME—Through a wooded stretch the road was lined with evergreens, their branches festooned with snow as white as any that gleams on a Christmas greeting card.

Walt Johnson looked back occasionally from the tractor, smiling. Perhaps he was thinking of the very brief time he has left at home. He will soon be in military service. There are a couple more sons in the family to help with the work on the farm.

With a whirl of noise and flourish the tractor turned into the Johnson driveway. The ride was over. The girls piled into the cars for the return to town and a warm-up snack at the Nyquist home. It had been a lot of fun, even for an old fellow who can remember horses and sleighs.

Rudolph, The Reindeer, Began As Sales Stunt

RUDOLPH AND CREATOR: For Robert L. May, it began as a stunt.

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—(NEA) — Once upon a time there was a little reindeer. By some strange biological quirk, he came equipped with an illuminating schnozzola. No other reindeer can make that statement.

Anyhow, to make a short story shorter, the kid made good. Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer (hereinafter known as Rudy) is one of the few 20th Century creations likely to become a full-fledged fairy tale. The story of the little reindeer with the built-in beacon is as familiar to fairy tale fanciers as Cinderella, Rumpelstiltskin and Rita Hayworth. Rudy's meteoric career as a first-string myth is remarkable when you realize the animal got off on the wrong hoof. He started as a sales promotion giveaway, the creation of a Chicago advertising man named Robert L. May, who works for Montgomery Ward. In 1933, May dreamed Rudy up specifically as a Christmas stunt.

He decided to write a little story around the character. For his plot, he simply took the Ugly Duckling theme and substituted antlers for feathers. Rudy is the Ugly Duckling with four legs. He isn't exactly ugly, but he has that thing nose which set him apart and made him sad.

To overcome Rudy's inferiority complex was a job for Santa Claus. May decided. Santa had trouble getting around on foggy nights and another reindeer like Dancer, Prancer, et al, was cheaper than a set of fog lights. So Santa and Rudy got together and everybody lived happily ever after and Montgomery Ward sold lots of Rudy dolls.

In 1933, the firm gave away some 2,400,000 books with words by May and illustrations by artist Denver Gillen. Rudy hibernated during the war, but pranced back in 1946 as Montgomery Ward gave away another 3,600,000 copies.

Since then, the book has been published commercially, with May sharing in the royalties. He expects that a million copies will be sold this year.

One of those early give-away books was spotted by New York songwriter Johnny Marks in the pre-war days. Marks, who had written hits like "Address Unknown" and "She'll Always Remember," keeps a notebook full of possible song titles. He casually jotted down the words "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer" in the book.

But then came the war. Marks went off, won captain's bars, a Bronze Star, five battle stars and, eventually, his discharge. Resuming his song writing chores, he leafed through that old notebook. The Rudy idea struck him again and that's how the song was born. Its success was tremendous. Marks, who was convinced that he had written a hit, went out on the limb and established his own music publishing house, called St. Nicholas Music. He got Gene Autry to record it and that one record sold more than 2,000,000 copies last year, the first for the song.

This year, there are 16 different recordings on the market, ranging from a boogie-woogie record by Sugar Chile Robinson to Bing Crosby, and from a cowboy singer like Montana Slim to Spike Jones. St. Nicholas publishes 29 arrangements of the song, for every type of musical unit from an organ to a marching band.

Led by Montgomery Ward, merchants have capitalized on Rudy's allure for the kiddies. A quick trip through their catalogue unearthed 43 different items decorated with Rudy and his red nose. Altogether, says May, there are over 100 items adorned with his picture.

There are mittens, jackets, snowsuits, slippers, suspenders, wristwatches, soap, banks, flashlights, school bags, lamps, radios, musical milk mugs and toothbrush holders, paperweights, mother-daughter apron sets, umbrellas, pens, pencils, scarfs, muffs, bibs, handkerchiefs, socks and even a Rudy rug.

Many of these have noses that light up. The radio has a nose that goes on when the set is turned on; the wristwatch nose glows at night; the bank nose lights up when a coin drops through a slot in the back, and the flashlight nose lights when the tail is pushed.

For a hearty luncheon salad, team cooked lima beans with crisp celery, cooked peas and carrots. Moisten with mayonnaise or other creamy salad dressing and serve on shredded lettuce. Pre-face the salad with a bowl of steaming soup and crisp crackers and you have a nutritious good-tasting meal.

Plastic Gullet Saves Victims Of Cancer

BALTIMORE — (AP)—A man who five weeks ago was slowly starving because of a diseased gullet is now eating normally — thanks to a piece of plastic.

Surgeons at Sinai hospital cut out the tube-like organ connecting the mouth and the stomach and replaced it with a flexible plastic. The hospital said it was the first successful operation of its type on a human.

The operation was performed by Dr. Edgar F. German on a patient suffering from cancer of the gullet (esophagus). It was the result of three years of research by Dr. Berman and his associates at the hospital's Hoffberger laboratory.

Takes 90 Minutes

The hospital stressed that more operations of its kind must be done before its usefulness may be evaluated properly.

The surgery takes about 90 minutes to complete. This compares, the announcement said, to the as much as four hours required for the conventional operation in which the esophagus is cut out and the stomach is brought into the chest so that food passes into it directly from the mouth.

Dr. Berman believes the prime use of the plastic gullet at present would be in patients suffering from cancer.

The announcement made it clear that doctors offer no hope of a cancer cure through the new plastic tube, "only a possible palliative or relieving effect."

It said other surgeons have commented that if the plastic gullet should work successfully, it would be especially beneficial to children who swallow lye or acids and suffer irreparable damage to the esophagus.

New Esophagus Grows

In many of these cases, scar tissue continues to form, making a construction that must be stretched periodically over a period of years. Two of Dr. Berman's experimental dogs have been living for over a year with plastic tubes in place of gullets.

The hospital said that it has been found by microscopic study on animals that an entirely new esophagus lined by mucous membrane grows down around the plastic tube.

This opens the possibility, Dr. Berman said, that after a time, the plastic tube may be removed, leaving a new and perfectly normal gullet.

The Hoffberger laboratory at Sinai is one of the 14 beneficiary

U. S. Puts Bee On Tax Evaders

Treasury To Check On Income Reports

By PETER EDSON
WASHINGTON—(NEA)—With still higher taxes inevitable, the U. S. Treasury has been doing some checking up on tax evaders. The purpose is to see if a few more dollars for defense couldn't be collected this hard way.

Over 52,000,000 returns have been filed in each of the last few years. It's impossible to do more than a superficial audit on them all. Common belief has been that only the big income returns were checked carefully, but this is said to be not so.

All returns which show certain tell-tale signs of deliberate fraud or incorrect reporting are given a close scrutiny. Experience over the years has taught income tax examiners where to look for evasions and how to spot them.

Recently, however, the Treasury realized that it needed a more scientific method for selecting a small number of returns for close audit. As described by Asst. Secretary of Treasury John S. Graham, this resulted in an "Audit Control Program."

First step was a scientific sampling method which turned up 162,000 out of a whole year's returns. Those returns which were selected for audit were picked by number, without any knowledge of who the taxpayers were, or how much tax they had paid.

One of the surprising results of this sample was that Secretary Gibson's own return was one of those scientifically selected for audit, as were those of some of his friends.

25 Per Cent Had Errors

But the most surprising discovery of all was that one of every four individual income tax returns audited was in error by $2 or more in tax liability. In other words, 13,000,000 out of the 52,000,000 returns filed last year must have been in need of correction. And nine out of ten of these errors were against the government.

In still other words, these errors must have lost the government about $1,300,000,000 since the average understatement on the returns checked was $114.

The other side of the picture is that the 10 per cent, or the 1,300,000 individuals who overstated their income contributed $90,000,000 that the government wasn't entitled to.

On the returns with errors, 5 per cent were simple mistakes in arithmetic, with no fraud intended. Sixteen per cent, however, made mistakes in claiming exemptions, 25 per cent claimed deductions they were not legally entitled to, and more than 50 per cent made mistakes in reporting their income.

Examples of mistakes made by people in reporting their income taxes—as given by Secretary Gibson—show that out and out criminals who try to conceal income from illegal enterprises are relatively few in number, and are usually caught. The people who try to defraud the government of tax income are more numerous. But the big bulk are just ordinary people who apparently try to get away with something—just once, or perhaps oftener. Temptation and greed are a little too much to cope with.

What "Helpmeet" Means
There was, for instance, the case of the man who insisted that he had only one bank account. His wife, who was sitting in on the interview with the examiner, spoke up and admonished her mate that he had several, and named the towns. The taxpayer tried to brush aside his wife's remarks. "Don't you know you can go to pay it to the government in taxes. It hadn't occurred to him that he was a slacker, and that he was letting others carry his responsibilities as a taxpayer.

Simple honesty results in many leads to the treasury on income tax violations. There was the case of a Quaker who, outraged by his neighbor's bragging of how he had defrauded the government through failure to report full war industry profits, passed the information along to the treasury.

Many defrauders give themselves away. There is the case of a jeweler who falsified his books and buried $100,000 in unreported income in his cellar. One day he dug it up and to his horror found that the money had melted. When he tried to exchange the bills for new ones, the odor of fraud was so strong that he was caught.

Another case was that of a man who claimed big exemptions for entertainment. A check-up showed that the man had thrown big parties, all right. His excuse was that if he hadn't spent the money that way, he would have had to

No Uranium In Big U. P. Rush

1950 Saw No Atomic Materials Mined

As 1950 draws to a close—a year which saw some of the excitement of a junior-size gold rush attending the Upper Peninsula uranium strike—not a pound of the atomic mineral has been mined.

The conservation department has received a total of 15 applications to prospect for uranium ore on state land, which merited field investigation. Geological examination has resulted in the cancellation of nine lease requests and four other prospecting sites still are to be checked in Marquette, Dickinson and Gogebic counties. Only two active leases exist, one covering the original 80-acre discovery area in Baraga county and the other for a 100-acre tract in Dickinson county.

While the department geologists are just as interested in finding uranium ores in the state as anyone, they cautioned at the time of the first discovery that it only meant that an area in Baraga county had been located where further exploration for mineable quantities of the ore was warranted.

Yet with the uranium fever prevailing, the department received many letters, some with rock samples, from would-be prospectors. In spite of the worthlessness of one set of rock samples submitted, one applicant insisted the department take his $25 application fee and check his "find" area. The answer still was the same as that sent out to many first inquirers.

Inflammable Means It Is Flammable

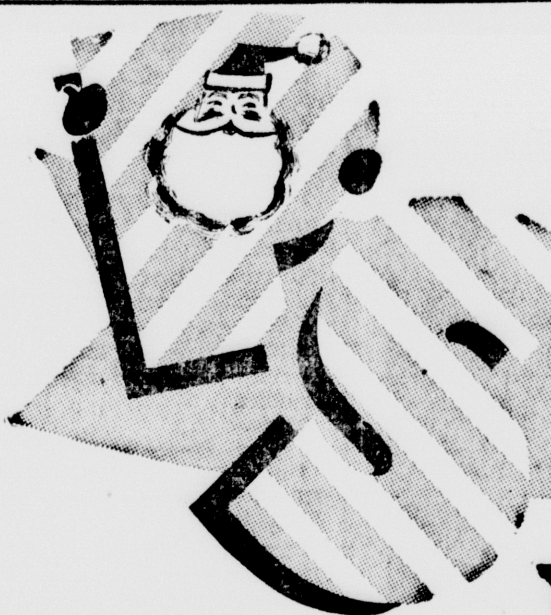

CHICAGO — (AP) — Confusion over what the word "inflammable" means may be an indirect cause of fires, say Dean Keefer, director of safety engineering for Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co. He points out that "inflammable" means easily ignited and not fireproof as many people believe.

Because they are misled by the word, Keefer says, many persons are not careful in handling certain canned or bottled fluids which are easily ignited. As a result, some national groups working on fire prevention standards have eliminated the word from their language. Instead, they use "flammable" to describe easily ignited materials and "nonflammable" to label anything that is fireproof.

U. S. Now Enjoys Peak Prosperity

How Long Will It Last?—Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
BABSON PARK, Mass. — Perhaps when everyone is so excited as is true today, it might be well to look at past history. There certainly have been other times when the American people were even more disturbed. Probably most readers have weathered four stock market panics.

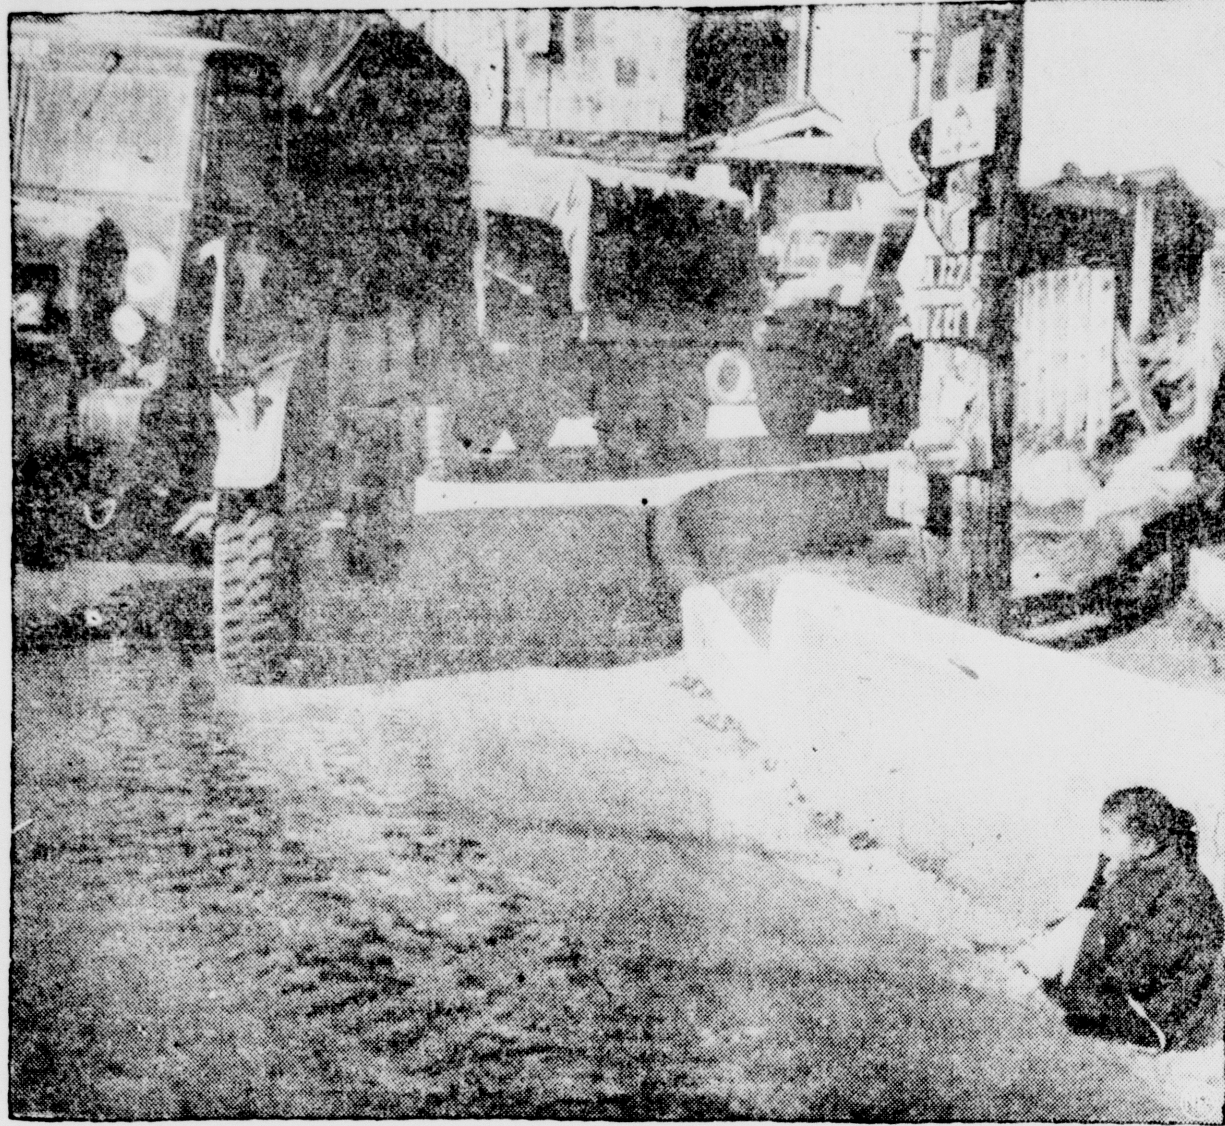

The first scare was in 1914 when the New York Stock Exchange was closed for some months, and investors were throwing over securities without rhyme or reason. Yet, after the Stock Market opened again the Industrial Averages rose 113 percent, while many stocks rose much more. Stocks continued high for about two years.

Second Scare in 1921
The second scare came in 1921, brought about by an unprecedented sudden decline in wholesale commodity prices. This sent many concerns into bankruptcy. Yet, it was only a question of readjustment, after which employment increased and the Industrial Averages climbed nearly 500 percent, while certain stocks did much better.

The third scare came in 1929 due to the extreme overexpansion in the stock market, followed by the closing of thousands of banks, — a situation which had never before happened. Yet, faith was reestablished, and the industrial averages increased about 370 percent; while then again, other stocks did even better.

The fourth break came in 1937, and it was caused by the Roosevelt administration's attempt to put a planned economy on United States business. It was the first time this had even been attempted; a severe market break followed, accompanied by unemployment, declining commodity prices, and general fear. This lasted until the war broke out in Europe when England and the Allies gave our corporations large war orders. Of course, during 1940, 1941 and 1942 the market fluctuated downward with the state of war, reaching the low point in 1942. When the war outlook changed for the better in 1942, the market began to pick up and the Industrial Averages went up about 130 percent.

The last scare came when the war was over, due to fear of unemployment. Everybody had gone to work during the war days; they liked their pay envelope, and did not want to leave their jobs. This fear of general unemployment caused merchants suddenly to cancel orders for merchandise which resulted in factories laying off more help. Contrary to all expectations, this unemployment was of short duration, and the Stock Market again began to climb. From 1942 to 1946 the Industrial Averages rose about 130 percent.

Where We Stand Today
The country today is at a peak of a prosperity area. To be exact, we are riding 37 percent above normal compared with 38 percent below the normal in 1933. Our normal is based upon the average of the full cycle. How long the present prosperity will last, no one knows. During the next few years our fate depends upon whether the President and his advisors say "Yes" when they should say "Yes"; and say "No" when they should say "No". I sincerely hope they get on their knees and ask the guidance of God when making these tremendous decisions.

We need have no fear of the things which have brought on previous depressions. These have been remedied. Also, the Stock Exchange margins have been greatly increased, which should be a steadying factor, as well as the growth of investment trusts.

Eisenhower Finds Self In Dilemma Like GI's

By MARQUIS CHILDS
NEW YORK—The big man in the blue-gray suit and the bright blue tie paces up and down beside his desk. Through the big windows looking out on the campus you can see the classes changing. President Dwight D. Eisenhower of Columbia university is being called back to active duty. He is returning to what he calls the soldier business. And the curious thing is how his case in many ways matches that of thousands upon thousands of other veterans throughout the country.

He'd really just begun to settle down in his civilian job. There were a lot of things he liked about it and some that he didn't. Now this has happened as it has happened to so many others.

His wife the other day figured up that on one tour of duty or another he had been out of the country for 15 years and separated from her most of that time. She said, as I'm sure thousands of other husbands, "but why couldn't it be a younger man? Why did it have to be you?"

General Eisenhower knows very well the answer to that question. He is to be named supreme commander of the North Atlantic command force because he is the only man who will inspire the confidence and the conviction in the creation of a force made up of many nations joined by the single idea of preserving their freedom in the face of Communist imperialism. He is being called up because he has the know-how, which again fits the case of many others who fought through that other war and are now wondering why they have to be torn abruptly out of civilian life.

General Ike has the prestige and the acceptance both at home and in Europe which make it possible to do an all out impossible job. He's had quite a few letters already from comrades in arms across the seas asking how soon he is coming over. One the other day came from "Monty"—Field Marshal Lord Montgomery—who commanded British armies on the continent after D-day in 1944.

Ike is not sure how soon he will go. It is one of the manifold uncertainties plaguing the veteran about to be uprooted again. The announcement of his appointment is likely to come after secretary of state Dean Acheson meets with the foreign ministers in Brussels, or it may come earlier.

And then, being realistic about his job and its significance, Eisenhower believes he should go to Europe at once. A waiting period would tend to nullify the psychological value of what should be an act of unity and resolution on the part of the free world.

Soldier and Diplomat
About the terms of his job as supreme commander, what it will mean in the way of problems and difficulties, he knows little. While the general has conferred from time to time in Washington with both military and civilian defense chiefs, he has not asked them to spell it out because he knew they were still pretty much in the dark themselves.

But as he sees it, the supreme commander will be at least as much a diplomat as a soldier. He will be responsible for reconciling governments and commanders. In considerable part it will consist of picking up the threads that he had woven together with great skill as commander of the allied forces in World War II.

It will not mean, as the newly-drafted veteran visualizes it, in working out the details of command relationship as between one force and another. That will be left to his deputy and to others specifically responsible for creating the necessary machinery of command.

Of one serious shortcoming Eisenhower is acutely conscious. For a proper beginning there should be additional American divisions stationed in Europe at once. But virtually all of America's foot soldiers are 10,000 miles away on the Korean peninsula in a do-or-die effort to escape from an overwhelmingly superior foe.

General Ike doesn't beef about that. He knows it is too late to beef and the danger is so great that each man who is called must try to do his duty as best he can.

Taking Leave of Absence
The comparison with the combat veteran called back to active service breaks down, of course, at many points. General Ike wrote a book and made a lot of money out of it. As a five star general he has a salary and allowances that will always take care of his family. And he will not resign from the presidency of Columbia, but go on a leave of absence with the blessing of the board of trustees.

If there should be no war, he would return in a year or so. That is one of the points of difference—he is saying now that if it comes to a shooting war, a younger man must assume the command that he held in World War II.

Yet the similarities are there, too. He and his wife are talking about what they should do. Should she go to Europe with him? Or divide her time between her husband and her parents, who are growing old. It's a problem. The man in the blue-gray suit sometimes talks like one of the thousands of GIs who fought under him in that other war, the war that seems at times to have happened so long ago. And yet measured by the pitiful interval of "peace," Ike and the others feel it was only yesterday.

Many People Live In Public Housing

NEW YORK—(AP)—The number of persons now living in public housing in New York City exceeds the population of good sized cities. Gerald J. Carey, executive director of the New York City Housing Authority, reporting on construction progress, has announced that since World War II, a total of 36,000 new apartments have been completed with 90 per cent of the tenants being veterans. Including projects built before the war, this makes the authority landlord for 53,000 families, or more than 200,000 persons. Eleven more projects for which contracts have been awarded and 14 others with preliminary approval bring the city's program to 87 big developments providing apartment for 101,000 families. More than 320,000 applications are on file.

Bulb Sales Indicate Bright 1950 Yuletide

BLOOMFIELD, N. J. (AP)—This yuletide will be marked by the brightest holiday lighting ever, the Westinghouse Electric Corp.'s lamp division said.

In 1949, American lamp manufacturers produced a total of 435 million Christmas tree bulbs. Demand has been so heavy this year that Westinghouse said it has doubled its output facilities over last year. It produces the bulbs in plants here and in Richmond, Ky.

H. J. Hanbury, manager of Westinghouse Christmas tree bulb sales, attributes the demand largely to a tendency toward more lights on each indoor tree, and to the increased popularity of outdoor lighting.

Marjorie Ward Is December Bride of Theodore J. Sura

Yellow mums and greens intermingled with candles in candelabra decorated the altar of the Memorial Methodist church for the marriage on Saturday of Marjorie Jean Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley G. Ward, 1021 Wisconsin avenue and Theodore James Sura, 1812 Lake Shore, Escanaba, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Sura, Detroit, Mich. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by Rev. Glenn Kjelberg.

A prelude of organ music was played by Mrs. Edward Olson as the guests were being ushered to their places by Grier V. Ivory and Emil Larsen. As the bridal party took their places before the altar, Mrs. Glenn Kjelberg sang "Because" and as the bride and groom knelt for the final blessing "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were played by Mrs. Olson.

The bride chose a gold velvet street length dress with brown accessories for her wedding. She carried an adornment bouquet centered with a yellow orchid.

Mrs. Grier V. Ivory, the bride's sister and matron of honor, wore a green velvet dress with green accessories and carried an adornment bouquet centered with a yellow orchid.

The groom had as his best man, his brother, Eugene A. Sura of Detroit.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Ward was attired in a du-bonnet dress with navy blue accessories. Bronze mums formed her shoulder corsage.

A reception was held at the bride's parental home and a wedding dinner for the immediate family members was served at the Dells.

For their wedding trip the newlyweds will tour through the south, going to New Orleans, and Miami. Upon their return they will reside at 5078 Kensington street, Detroit.

The bride is a graduate of Gladstone high school and Cleary Business college, Ypsilanti. The groom was graduated from South Eastern high school, Detroit, attended the University of Detroit and Detroit law school. They both

WEDDING FESTIVAL

PROCESSION. Preceded by tiny ring-bearers, the couple and a long line of relatives and friends pass through town.

A wedding is a gala event in the Italian mountain town of Scanno. On the wedding day the groom calls at the home of the bride to escort her to the church. A procession of relatives and friends follows them through the narrow, winding streets of the town. Nearly every villager turns out to watch it. If the weather is fair, the ceremony is held outdoors. Festivities lasting for about a day follow. For the wedding, all the young girls and women turn out in traditional 16th century costume — an ample pleated skirt, a heart-shaped bodice with wide pleated sleeves and a headdress resembling a turban. A white linen apron is worn around the skirt. The bride wears the same traditional dress, but it is covered with a bright yellow brocade. Pictured here is the wedding of a Scanno couple, Antonietta Frontespeze, 20, and Rienno Antonio, 24.

Schweikerts Return Home

Spent Four Months Visiting Germany

Mr. and Mrs. George Schweikert and daughter, Doris, who returned Tuesday after spending about four months in Germany, learned by experience during their visit that the Russian frontier is not exactly a safe place.

Mrs. Schweikert, who described their visit as "wonderful", reported that relatives and friends in Germany had warned them not to go too close to the Soviet frontier. Their car, which they had taken with them to Germany, would be a temptation for Russian soldiers to dart across the border and take, they had been told.

At one time they drove to within 25 feet of the border and saw no one on the other side, Mrs. Schweikert said. "George got out to take a picture, and green-clad Russian soldiers started popping out of the ground by the dozens. They trained binoculars on us," she said, "and we got out of there in a hurry."

The Russians, she said, were apparently concealing themselves in holes in the ground near the frontier.

Fear Russians
The Schweikerts, using their car, traveled extensively in Allied-occupied Germany and in France during their sojourn abroad. Despite the hardship and the ruins of war, the people of Bavaria still seemed happy, they reported. The war virtually wiped out the middle class, they said, leaving only the very poor and the well-to-do.

Back of their evident gaiety, however, is the fear of the Russians, the Schweikerts reported. Everywhere it is evident. The Germans are making wonderful strides in recovery, they said, but most of the work has to be done by hand. Tools and machinery are desperately needed, particularly on the farms, they stated.

The Schweikerts enjoyed in particular their auto journeys through Germany and France. "The autobahns in Germany are marvelous highways," Mrs. Schweikert said, and she reported that French roads also were good but not to be compared with the German thoroughfares.

Visited Jacob LeMaires
In Germany the Schweikerts stayed with Mrs. Schweikert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Muiy, of Speyer. They also visited Mr. Schweikert's mother, Mrs. Rosa Schweikert, whom he had not seen in 23 years. They spent much time, too, with his brother, Fred, and his two married sisters, Eva and Louise, in Ludwigshafen and Mannheim, about a 20-minute auto trip from Speyer.

Another family they saw a great deal was Mr. and Mrs. Jacob LeMaire, of Speyer, who visited here two years ago with their son and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Frank LeMaire. Both are known to many Manistique people.

The Schweikerts left LeHavre, France, on Dec. 1 on the SS America, arriving in New York on Dec. 7. They drove their car from New York to Manistique. "We enjoyed our trip very much," the Schweikerts said, "but it is wonderful to be home again, back in the good old U. S. A."

The boy was brought to the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital by Gorton Hamill. Mrs. Lukas Wagner, of Gulliver, driver of the car, told state police that she applied brakes when she saw several children playing in the road ahead of her. The car skidded on the icy road and struck the Lee child. Police reported she was traveling at a slow rate of speed when the accident occurred.

Rangers End Wings Win Streak With Tie

NEW YORK — (P)—The New York Rangers may be buried in the National Hockey League cellar but that doesn't keep them from spoiling things for the Detroit Red Wings.

The Rangers are making a habit of it. Last night they tied the second place Wings 3-3 to end a six-game Detroit winning streak.

On Nov. 19 they spoiled the Wing's best previous win streak, four straight, with another 3-3 tie.

Last night's tie cost the Wings ground in the battle to reach first place. Toronto beat Boston and now leads Detroit by three points. The Wings return to Detroit to tackle Chicago tomorrow night.

Jim Turnesa Wins Havana $1,500 Meet

HAVANNA — (P)—Fashioning a last round 65 with the help of an eagle and five birds, Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N. Y., member of the famed United States golfing family, won the Havana invitation golf tournament yesterday with a 72-hole total of 267.

Pete Cooper of Ponte Vedra, Fla., had a chance to get Turnesa, but had putting difficulty in the last nine holes and finished second with a 68 and final score of 270. Four of Cooper's putts in the cup and failed to drop. One of them actually disappeared from sight then spun out onto the green.

Turnesa missed some close putts, too, but he made enough to win the $1,500 first prize. In addition he won another $1,500 in the pro-amateur competition which ended Friday.

Defending champion Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., shot a blistering eight-under-par 64 to lead the last round, but he gained only a tie for third place at 723 with Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y. Barron got a 68 in his last round.

Like Turnesa, E. J. Harrison of St. Andrews, Ill., shot a seven-under-par last round 65, but this gained him only a tie for fifth place with Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., at 724. Bolt posted a 66 on his last 18.

Rounding out the first ten are Lew Worsham, Oakmont, Pa., at 276; Tony Penna of Cincinnati, the first day leader, at 277; and Jackie Burke of Houston and Fred Haas Jr. of New Orleans, tied at 278.

Only state in the Union whose laws are not based on the English common law is Louisiana, whose statutes are based on the Napoleonic Code.

Notre Dame bounced Northwestern from the unbeaten ranks, despite the 21-point production of the Wildcats' Ray Ragelis, in Chicago Stadium Saturday by a 92-76 margin. Illinois edged DePaul 69-65 on the same bill.

In other Saturday engagements, Michigan won its second straight with a 58-37 trimming of Butler, Minnesota buried Pittsburgh 72-23, and Marquette handed Wisconsin its third consecutive defeat, 61-53.

The week's schedule: Monday—Notre Dame at Iowa, Michigan at North Carolina State, Wisconsin at Kansas State.

Tuesday—Marquette at Michigan State, Wisconsin at St. Louis, Wednesday—Washington State at Illinois, Northwestern at Rice, Penn at Purdue, Marquette at Tulane.

Friday—Penn at Illinois, Indiana vs. Butler and Purdue vs. Notre Dame at Indianapolis; Stanford at Michigan.

Saturday—Indiana vs. Notre Dame and Purdue vs. Butler at Indianapolis; UCLA at Iowa, Oklahoma at Minnesota, St. Louis at Ohio State.

Unbeaten Indiana so far has added the most prestige to the Big Ten and has jumped into the favorite's spot for the title when the championship race starts Jan. 1.

The Hoosiers made a successful invasion of tough Kansas State Saturday and pulled off a 58-52 decision—their fourth successive triumph. It was the K-Staters second loss in six starts.

Indiana waits until this week end to place its perfect mark on Escanaba Hawks' start in the first Northern Wisconsin-Michigan hockey league Sunday at Eagle River, Wis., was an unhappy one.

With little practice and a lineup that, for the most part, was inexperienced in fast hockey, the Hawks suffered a 9-1 shellacking at the hands of the Northern Falcons, a team composed mostly of veteran Canadian skaters.

The Hawks expect to have at least a couple of new players in their lineup when they open their home season on fairgrounds ice Wednesday night against the Portage Lake Pioneers.

The Hawks did very well in the opening period Sunday, holding the last skating Falcons to two goals, both by Right Wing Rea, one on an assist by Center Chicarello and the other by Brandie, a spare.

But the roof caved in on the Escanaba boys in the second period when the Eagle River six poured five shots into the net. Rea completed the "hat trick" in this period with his third goal.

The Hawks got their only score on a solo jaunt by Julius Artwick at 19 minutes in the second period. The Eagle River boys added two more goals in the last frame for good measure.

Watkinson, Falcon goalie, had five stitches taken in his face when hit by a puck.

Introducing

Tom Smith, southpaw guard on the Escanaba basketball team, is the boy with the crew cut hair. He answers to the name of "Stacker." He is 16 years old, five-feet eleven-and-one-half-inches tall and weighs 158 pounds. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stack Smith, 800 Lake Shore drive. This junior is in his second year of basketball. He played half-back on the football team and was hurdler in track. He played his best game in football against Gladstone. In basketball, he wears uniform No. 33.

Eskymo Five Plays Tuesday At Gladstone

Encouraged by their improved showing against the state class B champions from Ishpeming, the Eskymo cagers tomorrow night take on Gladstone, the team that almost beat last year's state class B champion, East Grand Rapids.

The game at Gladstone will be the last for the two teams before the holidays. It will also be Escanaba's fifth bid for its first victory of the season.

Escanaba goes into the game with defeats by St. Joseph, Marquette, Iron Mountain and Ishpeming, some of the strongest teams in the peninsula.

On the other hand, Gladstone has victories over Bark River-Harris, Manistique and Munising and a defeat by St. Joseph.

On the basis of comparative scores against their one mutual opponent, St. Joseph, tomorrow's game should be a comparatively even affair. While St. Joseph trounced Escanaba, 69 to 44, the Trojans also trimmed Gladstone, 59 to 40.

Escanaba's task is clear—stop Cretin. The lanky Phil Cretin is the backbone of the Gladstone offense and if Escanaba can stop his high scoring, they may have a chance to win the game. Besides stopping Cretin, they will have to do something about pepping up their own offense which hit a year's low of 23 points against Ishpeming Friday night.

Rams Beat Bears, 24-14; Browns Trip Giants, 8-3

Groza Wins Game With Field Goals

CLEVELAND — (P)—Lou (The Toe) Groza, Martins Ferry, O., maestro of the place pick, was the No. 1 hero of the Cleveland Browns today.

The huge tackle, who never played a day of collegiate football, booted a pair of field goals yesterday to give the Browns an 8-3 victory over the New York Giants.

The win, first in three starts for the proteges of Coach Paul Brown over the Gotham goths, put Cleveland into next Sunday's climactic contest against the Los Angeles Rams for the National professional football league championship.

Willis' Play Hailed Groza was forced to share honors with guard Bill Willis as the Browns—four time champions of the defunct All-America conference—triumphed in the third outstanding defensive scrap between the teams which deadlocked in the regular campaign with 10-2 records.

Willis came up with one of the greatest games of his spectacular career, appearing often as the fifth man in the backfield. He shut off the New York's big touchdown bid when he caught Gene Roberts on the four-yard line after the giant rambler appeared touchdown-bound on a 34-yard run.

Brown later declared Willis "is the greatest lineman in American football" and that Groza's second boot was "one of the tensest moments of my life."

Steven Owen, Giants coach, said only that "it's all on the scoreboard."

The usually high-scoring Browns, who have registered only one touchdown against the giants in three outings settled for a field goal in the first five minutes when a 10-play 59-yard drive sputtered out on the four-yard line. Groza booted the three-pointer which kept the Browns out front until midway in the fourth period.

58 Seconds to Go Then Roberts broke over right tackle for 34 yards to the Browns' four where a series of penalties allowed the Giants 10 plays climaxed by Randall Clay's 12-yard placekick which knotted the count.

With the score tied and the clock running out, the Browns turned Quarterback Otto Graham, passer de luxe, into a ball carrier. The former Northwestern star three times zoomed through a vacated guard spot to net 37 yards and set up Groza's 22-yard game-winning field goal just 58 seconds before the final run. A safety, when Chuck Conerly was pined in his end zone on a pass attempt with only eight seconds to go, gave the Browns two final but useless points.

Top Rider Returns Today After Spill MIAMI, Fla. — (P)—Jockey Joe Culmone, the nation's leading rider, returns to the saddle this afternoon to continue his assault on Walter Miller's all-time riding record set in 1906.

Culmone, injured during a two-horse spill at Tropical park Saturday, was discharged from Jackson Memorial hospital yesterday. His physician, Dr. John E. Dees, said he would ride again today.

Culmone booted home his 370th winner shortly before the accident and has 12 racing days in which to break or tie the Miller's mark of 368 winners in one year.

The sensational 19-year-old Sicilian received a contusion on the head and a bruised left hip when his mount, New Wonder, fell during the fifth race.

Trenary Tips Hermansville By 68 And 50

TRENNARY — A junior, John Hicks, and a sophomore, Richard Rukilla, teamed up here Saturday night to lead Trenary Comets to their fourth win of the season as they defeated Hermansville, 68-50.

Hicks netted 23 points and Rukilla hit for 17 as Trenary won the game handily despite the loss of four players—three of them regulars—on fouls. Hermansville lost one regular by the foul route.

Edward Lohf, Hermansville veteran, led his team with 16 points, Melvin Poquette scored 13.

Hermansville reserves won the preliminary 29 to 22. Hermansville will entertain John D. Pierce of Marquette Wednesday in a replay of a game that was cancelled earlier when Trenary was darkened by a power failure.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved mother and grandmother, Mrs. Ira Bannister, who passed away one year ago, December 18, 1949.

THE WATCHER

She always learned to watch for us, Anxious if we were late, In winter by the window, And summer by the gate, And though we mocked her tenderly, Who had such foolish care, The long way home would seem more safe.

Because she waited there, Her thoughts were all so full of us, She never could forget, And so we think that where she is She must be watching yet, Waiting till we come home to her, Anxious if we are late, Watching from Heaven's window, Leaning from Heaven's gate.

Sadly missed by her HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

Scrooge and the Ghost of Christmas Past overheard a group of businessmen. "I thought he'd never die," said one. "What has he done with his money?" asked another. "He hasn't left it to me!" laughed a third.

The Spirit took Scrooge to a vile part of the city, and showed him, in a wretched hovel, a group of harpies haggling over the personal effects of the dead man.

Then they saw the dead man, unattended by friends or mourners. Scrooge was moved. "The case of this unhappy man might be my own," he wept.

Christmas Cards Light the Way

YULETIDE GREETINGS — This year's Christmas cards are aglow with light. You'll find street and hand lanterns, candles, tree lights, moonlight and even flashlights lighting the way to a happy Yuletide. Rudolph-the-Reindeer brightens up many a Christmas card with his shiny red nose. Some of the 1950 cards are whimsical, three-dimensional or have a distinctly modern touch. Warm colors are used to reflect the spirit of the occasion.
